Highlights from Drain's City Wide Yard Sale

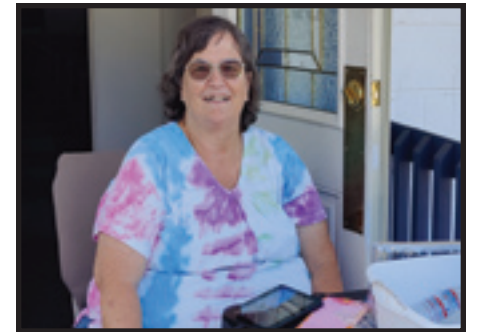

Lois Inmann & Dolly at the Library Raffle

By Rusty Savage
Drain OR - On August 12th, the people of Drain, again, had their city wide yard sale event. It's an effort that brings some positive energy and stimulus into the town. Although it looked a little sparse from the main street, I found that sales were going in just about every neighborhood and there were maps available through the Civic Center that helped.

According to Peggy Carson at 1st Baptist Church, "They did a really good job this year". The promotion is a year long labor of love for the organizers and the center of attraction was the indoor booths at the Civic Center. A friendly atmosphere for sure.

The stream of travelers on Hwy's 99 and 38 insured a steady influx of new customers turning over hourly. I saw a couple of RV's pulled in and parked so the occupants could chase down a few deals. I only stopped at about a dozen sales or so and I met the nicest people, happy to represent the town of Drain and eager to show their wares. Cont.pg 4

by Rusty Savage

It has been quite the ride, looking back, to get to this point. I'm looking down the Galley and seeing the first published issue of the North Douglas Herald newspaper and it all looks pretty good.

I've lived here in North Douglas for almost 6 years now. A couple of years ago I started to notice a vacuum of local news and information on whats going on around the town and the area. TV News stations are all off covering communities 50 or 100 or more miles away. So you wind up getting plugged in to one of the many Facebook groups or other online groups. Or you can try to get plugged into a local civic or local benefit organizations. That is the sign of the kind of community minded individuals who are truly involved and informed.

But there are many folks who have jobs and lives that keep them busy and occupied with life and they just want to be informed, honestly and truthfully. In this country, we do have a right to be informed and, in my view, to sit and read the newspaper to get your news and local information, is just the right pace.

So I want to tell you a little about the newspaper history of Drain Oregon. Just hearing the names of those publications conjours images of journalistic pioneers.

The Drain Echo is the earliest newspaper on record, printed from 1885 until around 1887. That's about when the Drain Watchman came out and it published until 1914. Along the way in 1901 came the Drain Nonpareil which also lasted until around 1914. Newspapers were quite popular in those years.

The very next paper published was also in 1914, possibly taking over after the Echo or the Nonpareil. Yep, the North Douglas Herald came on the scene in 1914. It seems to have been very popular but in 1922, the Enterprise also came into existence.

The North Douglas Herald and the Enterprise may have been competitors that began working more with each other in the Depression 30's, until they both faded out around 1940.

The Drain Enterprise was resurrected again in 1950 and was steady until around 1997 but then had several pauses in production until it's final demise about 4 years ago.

So it's common knowledge; the newspaper is, somehow, a failing business model in this digital, audio/visual corporate world. Even though we all want a newspaper to see, feel and read all over, newspapers are a busted industry.

I've worked in the publishing business, mostly in magazines, but some in tabloid and newspaper. I know the financial and promotional shortfalls and, more accurately, pitfalls of print media journalism.

So we are offering a new model. I want to bring you a monthly publication that has value all month long. Content that touches on all the busy parts of living in our communities, with our work and play, our kids, and our many aspects. Monthly to save on mailing and printing and so that we can beat the odds and thrive, together.

All that is needed to make it float is your little bit. Read the paper. It's your paper, support the local advertisers. Send in a letter, what's on your mind? Share pictures of your kids competing at a sports event. Keep the newspaper on the coffee table. Check the Almanac. Get the address of a new Church. Read your City section, check the next Council meeting. And Remember to support the Advertisers here in the Herald. It's their financial support that enables us to print, mail and distribute the North Douglas Herald FREE to all of our Readers. Let's all thank the Advertisers in the best way we can. Support Local! I thank you the Readers for doing your part.

On behalf of the North Douglas Herald, I promise to do my part. That is to give you the news and information that affects us in our world. Here where we live, I want to do my part to find what is important or what is entertaining and what is vital to you and to report it as it is, the way you want it. Truthfully, in a common sense fashion that encourages, entices and maybe provokes some thoughts and answers some others.

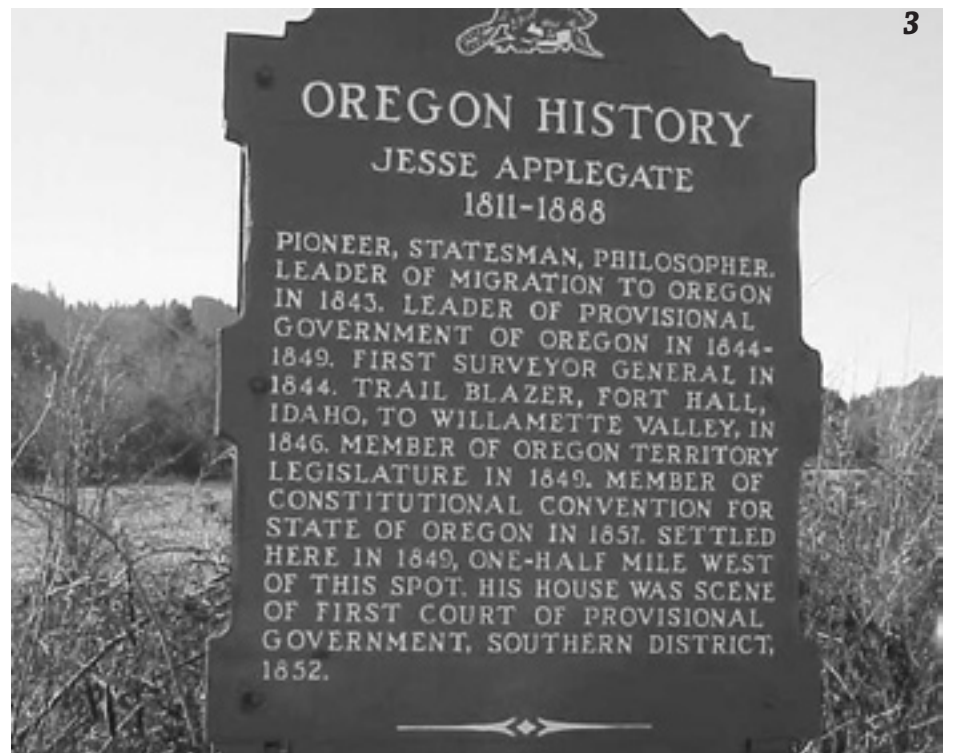

It is my pleasure to work and report to you all that is news and keep you informed and aware of our surrounding world. Thank you on behalf of the North Douglas Herald Newspaper.

North Douglas County is Rich in Oregon History

Across the wooded hills and river valleys of northern Douglas County, you will find an abundance of historic sites and locations. From the traces of the Oregon Trail settlers and travelers to vestiges of General US Grant's Hard Scrabble Ranch. Fort Umpqua is an important relic in picturing the forces that shaped our heritage here in North Douglas county. Pioneers like Jesse Applegate and Charles Drain still characterizes the fortitude and spirit that we reflect today.

Dedicated to the readers and residents of Douglas & Lane Counties.

Residents around Drain seem to look forward to the annual event.

On Cedar St. I ran into Sally Sheppard, her daughter Amber and granddaughter Chelsea maninng their wares from the comfort of a canopy of shade trees. Known as the Fairy House, Sally has an enterprising hobby of building, collecting and promoting her passion of Fairy Houses.

After I spent a little time browsing her table wares and domiciles, she invited me in to see the "Pièce de Résistance". What did I find? Well that's another story, check out "The Fairy House" below.

A little later I found myself talking with David and Jerry Luke and his son Mike. It was a nice spread of goods right across from the Civic Center. What caught my eye was Davids collection of hot wheels and model cars. Took me back to being 12 years old again.

And it was like that all day. From Neal and his mom, Laurie Lundeen working on N 1st to Lois and Mary inside the Civic Center to Diane and Jina on W. "D" Ave, it was a positive and upbeat social gathering.

Letter from the Librarian....

September rings in the new year. Some of us celebrate in January, but the true new beginning is September. Fight me. September is for sharp pencils, fresh notebooks, schedules, routine and ... possibility. We pack our bookbags and we fill in our calendars. We refresh our plans for growth and learning. In September we have a glimpse of the coziness that is fall, and of course that means more (at least metaphorical) fireside reading in our futures. In summer, I'm often drawn to light and entertaining reads. I love a world-building fantasy-adventure, a "beach" read with plenty of family drama and an unlikely romance, or a travel memoir. In fall though, I'm all about historical fiction, cook-books, cozy mysteries, and classics. Do you have seasonal genre favorites?

For today, in honor of September, I want to take you along as we make a list of back-to-school, boarding school, and academic novels. Pop in the library to share your favorite titles and discover some new reads.

The School for Good and Evil by Soman Chainani is a fairytale retelling that's set in a boarding school. Aimed at middle grade readers, it asks big questions about our assumptions and how our culture can judge and divide people based on shallow perceptions. Similarly, I love the middle grade novels of Ben Guterson's Winterhouse and Oregon author Colin Meloy's Wildwood. These cozy mysteries are great for any age reader and fun to share with a young person you might know.

In young adult fiction, John Green's Searching for Alaska is a coming-of-age novel set in a boarding school in Alabama. It's edgy and thought-provoking. For mystery fans, Maureen Johnson's Truly Devious is set in a boarding school where it's hard to know whom to trust. Of course we must include in any back-to-school list the Harry Potter series by JK Rowling. The first four books are catalogued in "tween" or middle-grade, and the final books are all in young adult as the themes become more mature as the characters age.

Modern takes on the boarding school theme in adult fiction include Maria de los Santos' Falling Together, a love story set on a beautiful campus. Donna Tartt's Secret History is an intellectually charged murder mystery, and best-selling author Jenny Colgan serves cozy fall romance in her Cornwall Little School by the Sea series.

The library is still open its summer hours through the end of September: Tuesday through Friday 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. In October it switches to Tuesday, Thursday, Friday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., Wednesdays 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The entire catalog can be accessed anytime at <https://ndld.biblionix.com/catalog/> ... log in with your library card number to reserve materials. Many library users also enjoy instant ebook and audiobook access through their free Libby app. As a librarian for help getting a card number or using online resources.

OUR TOWN - Local Issues

Citizens in small town Oregon are looking for answers to their local neighborhood and community issues. Are you active in your community? Do you see the efforts of those who are, paying off in a way that benefits us? Whether you decide to go to City Hall with your observations or if you would prefer to advocate loudly, yourself, the results may or may not come through.

Many feel frustrated, in general, when it comes to our governance, local, state level or federal. Are you looking for the voices of those who are intended to be our duly elected representatives? Do you have any answers, questions and/or opinions?

The North Douglas Herald is interested in YOUR take on how things are run.

Letter from Drain's Mayor

ODOT is considering removing the eastbound stop sign on Hwy 38 at the intersection of Hwy 38 and N Cedar Street. An ODOT representative has stated in an email to the citizens that wrote letters to ODOT and the City of Drain..

“ODOT staff needs more time to review current and past data before making a final decision.”

The representative also stated, “if the decision is to move forward with the signs removal, ODOT will first allow an opportunity to meet with the community to discuss the reasoning behind the decision and be open to additional feedback”.

Drains Fairy House

I had the chance to meet the Fairy Lady, Sally Shepard, her daughter Amber and Granddaughter, Chelsea. After inviting me in, I was blown away at eclectic collection of strange Americana. Besides her Fairy houses, Sally has a veritable museum of shocking and visually stunning memorabilia both inside and outside. Sally also exhibits a great affinity for Halloween. Thanks for the tour Sally.

Governor Kotek Announces Appointment of Oregon Lottery Director

August 23, 2023

Previously, he held positions in leadership at the Oregon Lottery as the Assistant Director for Security & Compliance and as a Cyber Crime Manager.

Prior to joining the Oregon Lottery, Wells spent more than 24 years working in local, state, and federal law enforcement. Most recently, he served as a special agent for more than 10 years in the organized crime section of the Oregon Department of Justice and was a member of the FBI's Cyber Crime Task Force conducting computer intrusion investigations. Wells has served as a police officer for various agencies, including Oregon State Police.

Wells has been a member of Cyber Oregon, Oregon's Cybersecurity Advisory Council and is a board member of the Oregon Peace Officer Association. He has previously served on the Public Safety Fund Memorial Board, the Police Policy Committee and the Board on Public Safety Standards and Training (BPSST) Committee.

"During my tenure as interim director, I've had the privilege of leading an exceptional team dedicated to ensuring the Lottery's ongoing support of its beneficiaries and key programs across our state," Interim Director Wells said. "I appreciate Governor Kotek's trust in my leadership and look forward to leading the work of the Oregon Lottery in funding critical programs that serve Oregonians."

Terrebonne, OR—Governor Tina Kotek today announced that Michael Wells, interim director of the Oregon Lottery, has been appointed to lead the agency as permanent director, pending confirmation by the Oregon Senate in September.

The director serves as the Secretary and Executive Officer of the Oregon Lottery Commission and is responsible for the administration and management of the agency.

"The Oregon Lottery funds critical state services like education, state parks, and veteran services," Governor Kotek said. "It is imperative that the director is an experienced leader who will champion transparency and accountability. During his time at the Oregon Lottery, Michael has worked closely with staff, the Commission, and stakeholders to lead with the highest standards of security and integrity."

Michael Wells (he/him) has held the interim director role at the Oregon Lottery since December 2022.

Small Business Finished Incredibly Strong with some Big Victories

NFIB Oregon State Director Anthony Smith follows up on a previous wrapped-up story and post-session comment news release with the following more comprehensive report on the small-business agenda following the Legislature's adjournment for the year.

The Oregon Legislative Assembly adjourned the 2023 legislative session on Day 160 as lawmakers finished their work Sunday, June 25, with just hours to spare. As required by the Oregon Constitution, legislative sessions in odd-numbered years may last no more than 160 days. Unless a special session is called for some unforeseen reason, the Legislature will not meet again until February 2024.

Small business finished the 2023 session incredibly strong. We passed two important tax bills – HB 2083, which extends Oregon's state and local tax (SALT) cap workaround program, and SB 498, which creates a $15 million estate tax exemption for business owners engaged in farming, fishing, and forestry. The final days of the session also saw the demise of two harmful insurance bills (HB 3242, HB 3243), which would have both resulted in more lawsuits and higher insurance premiums for small-business owners.

A few bad-for-business bills made it across the finish line this year, and the Legislature could have done far more to help small business. At times, it felt like lawmakers were content to accept the missed opportunities. But most of the truly objectionable ideas failed to pass – and on the whole, the 2023 session was arguably the best for small business in more than a decade!

Scam Alert for Oregon Businesses!

There is an alert out to watch for official looking paperwork asking businesses to file a 2014-Annual Minutes Form for Oregon Corporations, along with a $125 filing fee (Specifically, a Limited Liability Company, or LLC). Knowing that Oregon law doesn't require businesses to officially file their annual minutes, you should immediately suspect that the request is a scam.

The request comes from a company called "Annual Business Solutions" and contains a Salem, Oregon mailing address – but the company is not affiliated with the Oregon Secretary of State Corporations Division. And you don't need to send them any information.

Businesses need to keep annual minutes as part of their regular corporate compliance in order to maintain their limited liability status. But these minutes are internal documents that don't need to be filed with the Corporation Division. Official correspondence from the State of Oregon will always include: An image of the Oregon state seal. The words "Secretary of State Corporation Division." The Corporation Division phone number, 503-986-2200.

TEMPORARY CLOSURE NOTICE Singleton County Park

(Douglas County, Ore.) The Douglas County Parks Department will temporarily close Singleton County Park, located off Garden Valley Road a few miles west of Roseburg where the North and South Umpqua Rivers meet for the second phase of an improvement project on Tuesday, August 29, 2023. The project will include restriping and the installation of speed bumps. It is expected to take one day to complete. As with any project, unforeseen delays due to weather, equipment and material availability could possibly extend the anticipated project timeline.

August 23, 2023

We understand that our parks are a popular destinations for day use activities such as fishing, swimming, picnicking, and BBQs, so park patrons are encouraged to select an alternate facility that will fit their needs amongst our large inventory of Douglas County Parks during this temporary closure. For instance, River Forks County Park is located a short distance from this park and offers all of the same amenities and much more.

Singleton County Park is located off I-5 Exit 124, about 7.5 miles west of Roseburg off Garden Valley Road at 695 North Curry Road. It is located at the confluence of the North and South Umpqua Rivers. This small park provides a peaceful recreational experience with a small reservable pavilion for events.

The Douglas County Parks Department appreciates the public's patience as they continue to improve your recreational experience in our county parks. For more information, or to locate a park, campground or boat ramp near you, log onto the Douglas County Parks Department's page on the Douglas County, Oregon Government Website at: <https://douglascountyor.gov/802/Parks>.

ODFW Closes Angling on N. Umpqua & Tributaries

North Douglas County, Ore. — All angling on the North Umpqua River and its tributaries are to be closed until November 30, 2023. This was announced by Oregon Fish & Wildlife at the end of July 2023.

ODFW said this also happened back in 2021, closing the same locations due to findings that the initial counts of Summer Steelhead were historically low for the time period.

Apparently, in 2022, the running numbers of wild fish returns were only very slightly over the critical abundance level. In spite of early expectations, this year they were expecting to reach the critical abundance of 1,200 fish to return, early trend monitoring appears to show that goal will not be met.

It is apparent that the 2024 fishing regulation proposals suggest that ODFW will be attempting to further protect our migrating fish by implementing even more precautions regarding angling. This includes ODFW intending to further implement habitat restoration activities, including placing logs and boulders to build up natural habitats for the fish.

For Anglers and Enthusiasts of the North Douglas area and others, this is good and bad news. Good because some thought and effort are being put into the dilemma facing our Natural resources, habitats and Game populations. With some hope that that our own conservation efforts can save these resources for future generations. We need that. But its not so good that its a constant worry that it is eroding away. At this point lets say the good outweighs the bad. It is of note that ODFW recommends staying up to date on fishing regulations by looking at their website or calling in to find out about any current closures.

Like many in our area, North Douglas County residents Mike & Kathleen Sebastian are enjoying the adventure of fishing the North Umpqua River

Sat Sept 2 - Sun Sept 3, 2023 Elkton Rendezvous / Fort Umpqua Days

ELKTON, OREGON - The community of Elkton is making plans for their annual celebration of local history held on September 2nd & 3rd of Labor Day Weekend. Historic reenactors will set up camp on the grounds of Fort Umpqua, a life-size replica of a Hudson's Bay trading fort, to show what life was like in the Umpqua River Valley in the mid-1800's.

Guests can visit with blacksmiths and trappers, press their own cider, enjoy kids' activities and visit live animal exhibits. On Saturday, educators from the Cow Creek Band of Umpqua Tribe of Indians' Education Program will be on site to teach people about Native American culture.

Enjoy Elkton's hometown parade and famous pie auction on Saturday, along with a performance by the Sunny Sky Boys from 11am-1pm. A wide range of other activities including live music, artisan booths, tours of ECEC's butterfly pavilion and an opportunity to "Adopt-A-Butterfly" continue all weekend. Culinary highlights include a Lions' Club pancake breakfast, BBQ fundraiser and ECEC's student-run Outpost Cafe.

Most activities run from 10am-4pm. Each day wraps up with Elkton's live action musical pageant, Echoes of the Umpqua, at 5pm. A schedule of activities and more information is available at <https://elktonbutterflies.com/event/fort-umpqua-days/>.
